INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS AND GRADUATES

■ WHAT OPTIONS ARE AVAILABLE TO STUDENTS AND GRADUATES?

Students who choose to study in New Zealand have a number of options available to them while they study and after they graduate. Some students work part time while studying, and some choose to stay and continue with higher education, travel, or go on to obtain work experience and skills relevant to their qualification.

If you wish to work part time while studying in New Zealand, please check your eligibility and the steps you need to take on our website's student pages.

The Study to Work categories are for students and trainees who have completed certain qualifications (see below) in New Zealand, and enable them to gain practical work experience after completing their studies. From the date you receive official confirmation that you have completed your qualification you can apply under these categories. The latest you can apply is three months after the end date of your student visa.

There are two types of work visa available under the Study to Work categories – the graduate job search visa, and the work on completion of course of study visa.

■ AGE

There is no age limit.

■ IS A FULL-TIME (MINIMUM 30 HOURS PER WEEK) JOB OFFER REQUIRED?

Graduate job search work visa	Work on completion of a course of study work visa
No. If you are looking to find suitable employment you can apply for the graduate job search work visa.	Yes. If you have found a suitable job offer that is relevant to your qualification, you can apply for the work on completion of a course of study work visa. The purpose of this visa is to facilitate your entry into the industry you have studied and/or trained in.

■ HOW LONG CAN I STAY?

Graduate job search work visa	Work on completion of a course of study work visa
You can apply for this within the three months after your student visa. It is a 12-month work visa. This means you can apply for jobs and begin straight away if you are offered the position.	You can apply for this within the three months after your student visa or while you are on the graduate job search work visa. The visa can be valid for up to two years, or up to three years if required for occupational registration purposes.

DID YOU KNOW

- New Zealand law prohibits any person on a temporary entry class visa, including a student visa, from providing commercial sexual services or operating or investing in a business which provides such services.
- It is common for New Zealand, and international employers, to want qualifications AND experience for senior or more highly skilled positions. The Study to Work categories provide graduates with the opportunity to build on their academic knowledge and develop the experience they need to succeed in a competitive employment market.
- Students can begin looking for employment opportunities before they come to the end of their qualification. Some employers take on students over the summer holidays.
- Graduates can utilise the work experience they gain to move on to skilled employment. An offer of skilled employment can lead to a work visa under the Essential Skills Category or residence under the Skilled Migrant Category.
